I hope you had an excellent weekend! Saturday was a beautiful and Sunday wasn't too bad either! I hope you and your family were able to enjoy some outdoor activities and some warm sunshine.

Looking ahead at the weather this week: We will see some rain this with a chance today and some possibly coming later. Temperatures will stay comfortable during the day with temps in the mid to upper 50's!

Looking at this week, we start or continue our hard work and learning from home. Some have asked if we will be stopping school early or before June and the answer is no way! We will continue to share with all you weekly plans for learning and daily opportunities for you to connect with us by phone, email, Teams and more! We want you to know that we want to help you as much and as best as we can! Although we cannot be together at school, you should know that we will be here for you virtually!

Ok! Let's talk TRIVIA! The answer to last week's trivia question is: May 7th! That will be our next Full Moon! Although I cannot announce here who the winners are, I can share with you individually! You will be getting a separate message from me soon!

So this week's Triva.. The question this week for our weekly trivia is: Which Zoo in the United States has a live camera that you can use to look at and watch them? I'll give you a hint right away this morning, you can find a link to this web cam on the ECASD website! 😊
