

Morning Announcements

Good Thursday morning Flynn Flyers! Today is Thursday, April 16th and here are your quick announcements!

First, I want to start with a congratulations! Today is the day that we celebrate and honor one of our Flynn Flyers for their hard work and dedication to teaching and working at Flynn. Tonight, is the annual Golden Apple Award Banquet. This banquet is held at Wild Ridge Golf Course and Bob Gallagher, a news anchor from UWEC is the MC for the event. A nominated person from each school is honored at this event for their hard work and commitment to students on a daily basis. This year, Flynn's GA award winner is Mrs. Lawrence, one of our amazing fifth grade teachers. If you know Mrs. Lawrence, you know how much she cares about her students, her commitment to Flynn and her incredible work ethic. She cares deeply about student success and works hard to make sure that she each student is successful! Congratulations to Mrs. Lawrence and her nomination this year as our Golden Apple!

On to the weather. Who thinks the snow will melt completely today? I sure do (or at least I hope)! Today the temperatures will still be below our average high for today on April 16th but they will be and feel warmer than the past four! I don't know about you, but spring just cannot make up its mind! One day we are playing in the yard in a tee shirt, the next we are putting on our snow gear to go sledding! Hopeful this all melts today as I am ready to officially move to spring and summer! Looking ahead, the temps look wonderful moving into the weekend and next week so hopefully the white stuff is behind us!

Moving on.. Let's talk trivia.. This week's trivia question is about the moon! The question is: When will see our next full moon? A hint that I have for you this week is that it should arrive in early May! I have had a lot of excellent responses via email so keep em coming!

Those are your announcements for this Thursday, have a wonderful day Flynn Flyers!
