

Ready for an adventure?

Dear First Graders,

We miss you and all the fun we used to have at school! Even though we are apart, we can still learn and explore together and we have a fun idea for a way to do that!

If you have not read a book from the Flat Stanley series yet, you will soon! You will find a link to the story in the learning calendar the week of May 19th. Flat Stanley is a character who was smushed flat, so he was able to travel through the mail to fun places. We decided to smush ourselves flat so we could travel through the mail to your house and spend time with you! We hope you will include us in some of your learning and fun activities!

Here are some ideas that we could do together, but feel free to come up with your own ideas too!

- Read a book together. You know how much we LOVE to hear you read!
- Build a fort for us. It can be made with blankets and pillows. Get ready to be creative!
- Can you teach us how to draw some pictures? We would love to have your help!
- Let's do schoolwork together. Keep us nearby for turn and talks and other activities.
- You know we love to see you being kind! Let's go find someone at your house who we can do something kind for.
- We need to work out and keep up our fitness. Let's get strong together!
- Want to play a board game or a card game with us?
- Going on a walk or for a bike ride with you and your family would be amazing!
- Choose your own adventure! Surprise us in a good way!
- Bring me to our TEAMS meetings so you can tell everyone about our adventures!

Please take good care of us! We would hate to get lost so please keep us in a safe spot when we need to rest.

Write a story, send a picture or video of our adventures and all that we did!

We can't wait to hear from you!

Your Lonely, But Excited for our Adventure,

First Grade Teachers
